PENNANT BEE IN

Boston Club Hopes to Fly Rag at Beantown by the

TIGERS MAY BE SLIPPING

OTHER NEWS WAFTED OVER HILLS FROM EAST.

BY MANHATTAN.

New York, Aug. 28 .- The pennant bee is buzzing boisterously in the bonnet of the Boston Red Sox. The devotees of Browning and Emerson are full of confidence and cayenne. It don't seem to make any difference what club is pitted against them, they keep plugging away with a repertoire of smartly applied tactics, and all-round good ball playing. They have climbed the ladder steadily, and unlike any other club in either of the big leagues, although meeting with occasional reverses, have not taken the slump that is taken as a matter of course in all clubs. "Will the Red Sox win the pennant?" That is the question being asked throughout the east. If they continue to play ball as they have been doing for the past three weeks there can be no doubt that this year's American league pennant will go to Beantown-by-the-Bay.

It is pathetic to see Hughey Jennings Tigers on the way down the grand slide. A month ago not a fan in the country could be induced to say anything against the club or their chances of winning the pennant. The Tigers emed to have as tight a strangle hold n the rag in the American league as the Pirates did in the National. But every road has its turning, and the Tigers have turned mighty sharp. How far they will go down in the scale it is hard to predict, but unless Jennings manages to inject some hot stuff into his bunch, they are doomed for the head of the second division.

It was with regret that the fans heard that Napoleon Lajoie had resigned as manager of the Clevelands. It was against the wishes of the management of that club that the great first baseman handed the reins over to another. But there is consolation in the fact that Lajoie will still retain his old position with the Naps. Lajoie simply got tired of being a figurehead. He was manager in name only, and although powerless to increase the efficiency of his team, having to take any material handed to him by the management, and with the sporting writers of his home town and surrounding cities venting their chagrin at the poor showing the team was making on Lajoie's devoted head, it is no wonder that the popular player insisted that his resignation be accepted.

Outside of Honus Wagner of the Pirates, there is no more popular player on the diamond today than Lajoie, but an able, popular manager cannot make a winning team out of a bunch of bush leaguers in one season.

It may occur to the management of employ a manager that will manage the team, and whip it into shape.

Having given up all hope that the deal between John McGraw and the Philadelphia club, whereby Mike would join the latter team this season, having been dispelled, Donlin has signed a contract for six months with a theatrical firm, which is having a new sketch writ ten for him and his wife, Mabel Hite. It is said the new sketch will be tried on the dog, which in this city is Buffalo,

Y., early in the fall. Mike says that he will be in the game again next season, and if McGraw can be induced to release Donlin for a reasonable amount, it is not unlikely that the heavy-hitting Mike will be seen in the uniform of a Dodger next year. It is known that Charles Ebbitts, president of the Brooklyn club, is willing to pay a goodly sum to obtain Donlin for what he is striving hard to make, a ennant-winning team for next year. If Donlin goes to Brooklyn it will probably be as manager, to succeed Lumley. Mike would be a valuable addition to the Dodgers, both as an attraction

on the field and from an attendance

And Donlin's troubles this season re nind me that the pigheadness of two managers, to two players, it is hard to decide which from the various rumors and statements made by both managers and players, has kept two of the most popular baseball stars ever known out of the game this season. Baseball stars, although not made in a day or a year, seldom last more than a few years, and the fact that Mike Donlin and Johnny Kling have been compelled to vatch games from the grand stand throughout the season is a matter of regret.

War rumors in which the American ssociation is cutting a big figure are attracting much atention among baseball men in the west. It is persistently stated that the American association will become an "outlaw major league circuit" next year, with clubs in Chicago, Louisville, Pittsburg, Indianapolis, Brooklyn, Buffalo and Baltimore and either Providence or Newark. The men behind the scheme led by Havenor of Wilwaukee and Tebeau of Louisville and Kansas City, are said to have been digging up financial backers for several months and have met with encouragement from men who believe that baseball will become more popular next season. The major league magnates say they are not worrying, but nevertheless it is believed they are getting ready to sign up as many of the best players as possible before the alleged war cloud bursts.

Ban Johnson says he has dropped Tim Hurst from the staff of umpires, and nobody will blame him. An umpire that so far forgets the dignity of nis position as to use a player's face for a | Hurlingham was worth at least $75,000. cuspidor has no right on a baseball

But while we are on the subject yould it not be well for Ban Johnson to discipline some of his players for abuse of the umpires. There is absolutely no reason why a baseball player or a baseball captain or manager should make a protest about a play while the game is in progress. In fact, player has no right. When the men national game think that a game played played without the spectacle of half a dozen players rushing toward an umpire and yelling uncomplimentary remarks and abusive epithets at that much-tried individual for a decision that don't suit them, would be much more attractive to the public that maintains the game if they will properly conclude that the only time a protest can be made on an umpire's desision is after the game and in writing. It never has and never will do any good to protest a decision on the field, and the sooner the practice is forbidden by the rules of the game, and those ules enforced, the better it will be for players and public alike. Regarding Hurst, they are telling story about that unfortunate individual at a recent game at White Sox park. Chicago. The gatekeeper hurried up to President Comiskey and said:

"Umpire Tim Hurst is at the with two friends. Shall I pass them in? Comiskey gasped. "What, an umpire with two friends?" said the astonished magnate. "Sure,

God placed a Life in my hand,
As I passed Him on the Waste,
And He said: "Dost thou understand?
And I answered, "Yea," in my haste.

And the Life held life and waxed strong, And its beauty was fair to see; And it knew not of right nor of wrong, And went in my ways with me.

But one day it left my care,

And at last, from I knew not where,
I heard its cry in the wind.

Americans next year may witness the pectacle of an English polo team coached by a wealthy member of the ouse of lords and two dukes, mounted on Spanish ponies, trying to retake the trophy the Meadowbrooks won so easily in the recent match.

P. W. Nickalls, a member of the defeated British team, in a recent interview, said:

"The Americans can hit straighter than we can. In winter we hunt. They play tennis and racquet. There is no better practice for polo driving. If they ever get a ball within fifty yards of the goal, they make the goal. They had the best ponies also, and the lot they used at The Americans are the best sportsmen, I don't care what the line of sports, for they practice their games in a thorough manner, while we try to do a little of He gave bond and was released. everything, and as a consequence are not proficient in anything."

The Wonderland Athletic club of Cardiff, Wales, has offered a purse of $7,-250 for a match between Owen Moran and Jem Driscoll. Both men have so who make the rules that govern our far refused to accept, believing that a better purse can be obtained elsewher Moran and Jem were matched to meet in a twenty-round bout on September 14, but so far the purse offerings have not come up to what both fighters think they should get. Whatever club is successful in securing the battle, Britishers are sure to see one of the best bouts ever staged in England. There has been bad blood between the two men to years, and they are only too anxious to settle the matter of supremacy once for all, but think they should get at least $20,000 in the purse, to be divided 60 and 40, with a side bet of $2,000. A telegram from New York says that Charlie Griffin, the little Australian champion, who fought a number of battles in America in recent months, is on his way to England, and will endeavor to get a match with the winner of the Moran-Driscoll fight. Charles will have little trouble in making the match whichever man wins.

The promoters of the Olympic meet to be held September 11 have not been very successful in their efforts to secure ome of the top-notch American boxers, as attractions for their show. According o replies received from the managers of Langford, Ketchel, Papke and Kaufmann, not to mention some of the lesser lights of American fightdom, their men are pretty well tied up with engagements around that date. Should they secure the Moran-Driscoll bout, it will probably be the only fight between high class boys during the three days' meet. In past years the Olympic meet, as it is called (don't confuse it with Olympic games), has attracted fully 100,000 persons to the grounds, but still the management cannot see their way clear to offer the $20,000 purse demanded by Moran and Driscoll.
